900 CRIMES BY CHILDREN

AND NUMBER OF YOUNG VICTIMS DOUBLES

By Natalie Walker
natalie.walker@jpress.co.uk
@NWalkerWIG

The number of crimes committed against children in St Helens has risen two-fold over the last three years.

Figures from Merseyside Police also reveal that 900 crimes were recorded involving children under the age of 18 living in the town, which had risen from 851 in 2013 and 795 in 2012.

And shockingly the number of crimes recorded against children has almost doubled, from 256 in 2012, to 494 last year.

The most common act committed by teenagers and children was criminal damage, with 144 offences, followed by assaults, with 116 recorded; 90 burglaries; 85 common assaults and 76 possession of drugs.

The most serious crimes also include rape, of which eight were recorded and sexual assault, with 12 offences.

There were also three offences of committing sexual activity.

There were a total of 18 charges of a possession of an offensive weapon or knife, four firearms offences and five offences of carrying a loaded or imitation firearm.

Figures show there were 60 incidents of shoplifting, 24 of robbery and 29 of vehicle theft.

Police recorded 300 violent crimes committed against youngsters, including 293 assaults, 11 woundings and five incidents of aggravated bodily harm.

A total of 35 counts of sexual assaults against minors were also recorded.

A shocking 31 rapes or attempted rapes were filed by police against youngsters while 23 other sexual offences were recorded.

Three offences of under 18s being sexually groomed also took place in the borough.

Girlfriend slammed for campaigning on behalf of murderer

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

A Rainhill woman whose boyfriend is serving a life sentence for murder has been heavily criticised for her campaign against the joint enterprise law under which he was convicted.

Gerard Childs was charged alongside Stephen Price for his role in the murder of Jonathan Flitchett, 22, in December 2013, and his girlfriend Toni Murphy told the St Helens Reporter he is the victim of injustice.

But her outspoken stance has drawn criticism on the Reporter's Facebook page, with dozens rallying against her campaign.

Stephanie Vickers wrote: "Is she joking! I would feel ashamed if I was her I definitely wouldn't want my face in the news if I was a girlfriend of a murderer and definitely wouldn't be supporting my fella if he did murder someone. They both should of got longer in prison."

Megg Ward posted: "Jonathan's birthday this month, he won't be here to celebrate and it will be another day his family will have to grieve and remember what happened to him even more so than a normal day. Wrong on so many levels."

In July of last year, Childs and Price, both 28, were given hope in their bid to appeal their convictions when Mr Justice Irwin at London's Appeal Court ruled their cases were "arguable".

Ms Murphy took part in demonstrations by the Joint Enterprise Not Guilty By Association (JENGBA) at Liverpool Lime Street station on Friday (February 6) as part of a day of nationwide protests.

Demonstrations also took place in London, Leeds and Leicester against the law.

Under joint enterprise law a person may be found guilty of another's crime if they knowingly assist or allow that person to commit the crime.

"It's an exciting time for us as Gerard's appeal is pending," said Ms Murphy. "It would be brilliant, with the forthcoming election, for joint enterprise to be debated by MPs too – as it needs to be. Hopefully the Government will either abolish the law of joint enterprise or, at the very least, seriously reform it."

The Justice Committee urged a review of joint enterprise law following a report by MPs in December.

Chance to give sports a big shot in the arm

St Helens Council Sports Development team is calling for local sports clubs and local people, to help get up to 4000 people in St Helens more active over the next three years.

The Community Sports Project funded through Sport England will see local clubs and community groups offered the chance to work with trained Sports Activators for Free, to help set-up, run and maintain new sports sessions in local venues, with facility hire, equipment and training costs for volunteers and coaches all covered.

Sessions are underway to help people participate in sports.

The activators will support and help deliver new sessions that are fun, social and friendly, from jogging and cycling, to touch rugby, masters football and multi-sports.

James Thompson, one of three Sports Activators involved in the project said: "There's something for everyone - whether you're a complete beginner or have had a break from sport due to age or injuries, there's a session for you – and if not, we can look to see if we can set one up.

"It's a great way of attracting more people to your club, widening your networks, and engaging with parents or older ex-members."

Sessions are already underway, with a number of local clubs having taken up the offer which includes activities such as women's fitness, table tennis, and rounders.

St Helens Cabinet Member for Health and Wellbeing, Councillor Andy Bowden said: "The project aims to make activities sustainable and affordable for everyone and break down any barriers preventing people from taking part in sport.

"By listening to what activities people want to take part in, we can bring communities together through sport. Community Sport is for everyone- no matter what their sporting ability. It's a great way to get out, try something new, and meet new people."

For more information about the benefits available for your club or to find out more about the activities on offer, visit: www.sthelens.gov.uk/communitysport or contact Gemma Webster on: 01744 675403, email: gemmawebster@sthelens.gov.uk

Peter loves life as man in middle

St Helens referee elevated to join the ranks of world's very best officials

FEATURE

By Andy Moffatt
andy.moffatt@jpress.co.uk
@AndyMoffatt1

A St Helens referee has become one of the youngest officials to be elevated to Fifa's world list.

But don't expect to see Peter Nurse taking charge of a Premier League match any time soon because the 33-year-old specialises in a variant of the beautiful game called futsal.

Wildly popular in South America and parts of Europe, the game is similar to five-a-side but includes a number of subtle difference which promote creativity and technical excellence among its players.

Aficionados of the game even claim its promotion among young players could be the key to unlocking England's potential as a footballing giant!

Peter, of Kipling Grove, Sutton Manor, only started reffing futsal exclusively three years ago but has already risen through the ranks and is now officially sanctioned as a FIFA referee.

He said: "I had just come out of university, and just started working and had a desk job which meant I was sitting on my backside for eight hours a day.

"I was never much of a player but I wanted something to keep myself fit so I got involved in 11-a-side games and was refereeing in the St Helens Combination and then got to North West leagues.

"The same colleague who got me interested in refereeing was refereeing futsal in Manchester and he introduced the game to me. I went and researched it and the game appealed to me."

A business analyst for a software company, Peter's rapid rise through the ranks culminated when he was nominated to become a Fifa referee.

After a series of exacting assessments, Fifa's refereeing panel sanctioned his promotion. It means Peter can now take charge of European and international games.

He said: "Before I got involved I didn't really know futsal existed, I didn't even know it was a thing you could do but as I progressed getting on the Fifa list was definitely something to aim for.

"I made a decision three years ago now to give up 11-a-side refereeing and focus on futsal. "England are playing Sweden at the end of February down in London so I'm appointed to that. Going to officiate at a big tournament or the World Cup would be a ultimate goal."

Peter discovered he'd successfully made Fifa's list shortly after the birth of his first child, daughter Erin.

And futsal, like football and fatherhood, presents many different challenges, together with the odd perk.

He explains: "It is a much faster game, with a very different style of play. Some of the discipline problems you might see in an 11-a-side game, you don't really see in futsal. "Because the game is so quick there's no time to have a go at the referee!"

Man in the middle Peter Nurse is now certified by world governing body, Fifa

'Getting to the World Cup as a referee is what I am aiming to do'

Game that helped hone Messi's skill

- Futsal is similar to five a side football but a smaller ball and playing surface places more emphasis on creativity and improvisation because the players get more touches of the ball.
- The game is particularly popular in Brazil, where in parts of the country it has more participants than football itself. Predictably, Brazil top the world rankings.
- "The sort of skills you see players like Lionel Messi and Cristiano Ronaldo showing every week are all honed through playing futsal when they were younger," said Peter. "There are not fixed positions, everyone has to be able to play everywhere on the pitch so you can't be stuck in one position. You have to be able to play everywhere."
- Peter is also the chairman of St Helens Football Referee's Society. Anyone interested in getting involved in refereeing locally should visit www.sthelensreferees.co.uk

Ward changes

- Draft proposals to change Knowsley's ward boundaries have been published. The plans are available to be viewed on www.lgbc.org.uk and residents are invited to have their say as part of an eight-week consultation, which ends on April 6.

Police seek five women after horrific attack

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

Police want to speak to these five women over a savage assault outside a bar in St Helens town centre which left the victim afraid to go out at night.

The victim was left with a catalogue of horrific injuries, including a fractured cheekbone, a broken nose and severe swelling and bruises to the her face.

She was set upon by a gang of women at about 3am on Sunday, January 11, outside Bar 44 on Westfield Street.

The 49-year-old was seen inside the bar being pushed by a girl and then was seen being followed out of the bar by five women.

The victim was then subjected to a violent and unprovoked attack which left the 49-year-old requiring hospital treatment.

Police are asking anyone pictured or who witnessed the attack on Sunday January 11 to contact them

Police have released CCTV images of five women they want to speak to over the assault.

DC Ellie Devers said: "This ordeal has left the victim extremely traumatised and afraid to ever go on a night out in St Helens again.

"It was a totally uncalled for and meaningless attack.

"There were a lot of people on the street at the time of the incident and I'm appealing to them to come forward and speak to me."

Four women have already voluntarily presented themselves at a police station and are helping police with their inquiries but have not been arrested.

Detectives are appealing to anyone pictured, or who witnessed this incident, to contact them on 0151 777 6803 or Crimestoppers, in confidence, on 0800 555 111.

closely with other agencies such as the Youth Offending Services, to tackle the reasons why young people become involved in crime and to prevent re-offending.

"We work hard to engage with young people and have a number of Safer Schools Partnership officers who, with partners in education, discuss the serious issues of getting involved in crime and how to prevent becoming a victim.

"We also have a police officer who works within the Youth Offending Service.

"By working together with other criminal justice partners, they deliver a number of activities targeted at young people designed to reduce the risk of them re-offending.

This includes working with the families of young people and identifying any risk taking behaviour.

"Another important element of their work is to support and protect young victims of crime.

"We work with partners to put on diversionary activities, such as football tournaments, youth discos and cinema trips, which are effective in reducing crime.

"By engaging with young people at an early stage and diverting them away from crime, we aim to increase life opportunities as well as preventing young people from becoming offenders in the future."

'I'm leaving town to escape transgender hate crimes'

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

A transgender woman has told how she has swapped her life in St Helens for Liverpool, because it is "more tolerant".

Alison Stokes says harassment has forced her to leave St Helens

Alison Stokes, who was born Andrew Stokes, claims she has frequently suffered harassment from neighbours and members of the public in St Helens – simply because of who she is.

She said: "Places like Liverpool and Manchester are more diverse than St Helens so they are a lot more tolerant of minority groups.

"I've suffered harassment from neighbours over the years so I've decided to move to Liverpool. I'm sure I will feel safer when I live there.

"I've tried my best to promote lesbian, gay, bi-sexual and transgender (LGBT) issues in St Helens but I went to a diversity event recently and there wasn't a single representative from the LGBT community.

"When I walked in it was as if their jaws hit the floor."

Alison, 37, first came to the attention of St Helens Reporter readers in 2010 when she told of her humiliation after she was given the title "Mr" on her P45.

She said the administrative error added insult to injury after she lost her job with the local office of Bristol-based firm Mitie Cleaning.

Alison, of Grange Park, said the contract, which involved cleaning St Helens Job Centre, soured after colleagues found out that she used to sign on as a man.

Alison also received a police apology in 2012 after she was referred to as a "he" by custody suite staff at St Helens police station.

She made a formal complaint about the conduct of two officers after she was arrested on suspicion of threatening behaviour and subsequently had a complaint against her treatment upheld.

Alison took offence at being asked whether she should be searched by a male or female officer and at being referred to as a "he" in a telephone conversation with her family.

She added: "I don't think people in St Helens are very tolerant. Maybe, because there are less minority groups in St Helens, people are more suspicious.

"They don't have anything to be afraid of."

Councillor hailed as a gent and true Yicker

Tributes have been paid to Councillor Bill Anderton (pictured) who passed away last week at the age of 59.

Labour Party colleague Linda Maloney, who had known him for many years, described him as "a true gentleman".

The Union Jack flag was flown at half-mast above St Helens Town Hall last Friday as a mark of respect.

Coun Anderton, who council chiefs confirmed passed away following "a recent illness", had represented the Haydock ward since 2010.

Coun Maloney said: "I've known Bill for many years and acted as his agent when he stood for election in 2010.

"He was a true gentleman and a real character of Haydock. He will be sorely missed."

Coun Anderton, a grandfather and father-of-one, had been the chair of the councillor development scheme - a role similar to one he had also held in his working life.

Coun Maloney told how Coun Anderton was so passionate about it that he would, on occasion, become frustrated if the training being offered wasn't fully up to speed.

Prior to his retirement, he had worked at the Midland and HSBC banks in Haydock, Prescot and St Helens.

He went on to become involved with the union, becoming a district secretary.

And, although, born in Parr, Coun Maloney, who used to live across the road from Bill on West End Road, described him as "a Yicker through and through".

She said: "Bill was a very, very nice man. It's tragic to lose him at such a young age.

"He didn't originate from Haydock but was very well known there. He was certainly an adopted Yicker."

Coun Maloney added: "I first met Bill when we were friends and neighbours in Haydock and our paths didn't cross again until we both became involved in local politics."

New head vows to transform school

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

Meet Patrick Ferguson - the man charged with turning around troubled Hope Academy.

The vastly experienced headteacher admits the Newton-le-Willows school has gone through "a tricky period" but reckons it is already on the fast-track to success.

Mr Ferguson, also the executive principal at De La Salle Academy and Our Lady and St Swithin's in Liverpool, was brought in following consecutive unflattering Ofsted reports but thinks the school would be rated "good" if watchdogs visited now.

He said: "People have worked very hard since the second inspection hit the desk to deal with any shortcomings. I think it's turned the school around very quickly.

"If the inspectors came in today I think they would grade us at least 'good'. They may not jump to that grade straight away because they work in a particular way but in my opinion behaviour, attendance, leadership and curriculum organisation are all working very well indeed.

"It's a great place to work and a great place to come as a student - I feel privileged to be here."

Mr Ferguson explained that he would employ an "appropriate level of scrutiny" to ensure that teachers and pupils were keeping up to speed, and that holding staff to account was key to the school's improvement.

He also vowed that results would improve this year.

"My brief, very clearly, is to make this school 'outstanding'," he said.

"In 12 months inspectors will see a transformed academy - there's no doubt about that. A lot of changes have already been made too so it's not as if we are going from a standing start.

'My brief, very clearly, is to make this school outstanding'

"I now expect the number of students choosing Hope Academy to rise, the number of students staying on in the sixth form to rise and the number of students involved in extra-curricular activities to rise."

Mr Ferguson added: "There is an enormous reservoir of parental support, but they don't want second best. If we can create an environment where standards are as high as they can be, we will reach our goal."

Vastly experienced Patrick Ferguson is the new headteacher of troubled Hope Academy

Putting domestic abusers to shame

Council chiefs in St Helens are supporting an anti-domestic abuse campaign being timed to co-incide with Valentine's Day.

The campaign - dubbed Be a Lover not a Fighter - is being run by Champs, a collaboration of public health services across the nine local authorities in Cheshire and Merseyside.

It will launch a series of awareness raising initiatives to encourage people to talk about domestic abuse.

Liz Gaulton, St Helens' director of public health, said: "Even in the 21st Century domestic abuse is a taboo subject.

"This campaign aims to break down those boundaries and stop domestic abuse being a hidden issue in communities.

"We are already working closely with a number of partners from community safety, specialist services and police on the issue of domestic abuse."

Aladdin's cave to open sesame for victims

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@CAmery2

Burglary victims from St Helens are being invited to check if an Aladdin's cave of stolen treasures includes any of their belongings.

Nearly 200 items, ranging from TVs, laptops and sat navs to drills, lawn mowers and fishing equipment, will be on offer at a police event.

The goods have all been discovered by detectives from the area's acquisitive crime unit who investigate anything from garage break-ins and car thefts to house burglaries and armed robberies.

Officers have painstakingly tried to track down the rightful owners after finding the items during a search warrant before Christmas in St Helens.

Now detectives are inviting people who have had possessions stolen from their homes, vehicles or places of work to visit Logic House on Central Street, St Helens, to see if they are among the items on show.

DC Jeff Huxley with some of the stolen goods

DC Jeff Huxley said people would be expected to bring proof of purchase or ownership or be able to describe identifying features to officers before anything would be handed over.

He said: "After months of painstaking police work, we have decided that the best way now to reach more people is to hold an open day.

"Anyone who has been a victim of acquisitive crime in recent years is welcome to come along and provide us with the details we'll need to satisfy ourselves that the items are yours.

"Workmen may have lost a day's work after their van was broken into. Families may have lost hundreds of treasured photos after their cameras or laptops were taken in a burglary."

The event runs from midday to 7pm on February 13 and between 10am and 3pm the day after.

Schoolboy found dead on birthday

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@ChrisAmery2

A teenager lad was found dead after going for a walk on his 13th birthday, a coroner's hearing has been told.

Terry Hall was found in an "unresponsive condition" by a passer-by in Stadt Moers Park, Whiston, on January 29 and was later pronounced dead.

Flowers, teddy bears, balloons and cards have since been pinned to the entrance to the park, just a short walk from his home.

One of the tributes read: "RIP Terry. Save us a seat in paradise angel."

Another simply read: "Taken far too young, far too soon."

St Helens coroners officer Kevin Farrell told an inquest hearing last week that, due to inclement weather and the fact it was his birthday, the youngster was off school.

He had left his home on Skipton Road, Huyton, just before 10am with his pet dog. He was later found just before 1pm.

Countless floral tributes have been left at Stadt Moer Park to Terry Hall

Paramedics tried to revive the boy, but he was pronounced dead shortly before 1.30pm.

No official cause of death has yet been released.

After his death, the headteacher at his school, Knowsley Park School paid tribute to the popular youngster. The inquest was opened and adjourned and a provisional date for the full inquest hearing set for May 11.

A fundraising drive in memory of the Knowsley Park school pupil - to help his family cover funeral costs - has already raised thousands of pounds.

Two teens charged with arson

Two teens charged with arson following a devastating blaze at a social club are set to stand trial.

Ryan Hatton, 18, and a 14-year-old boy, who cannot be named for legal reasons, both stand accused of arson and burglary following a fire at Haydock Catholic Club in the early hours of January 4.

Despite the size of the blaze, there were no injuries as a result of the fire at the Church Road club.

Both are also charged with entering The Crispy Cod chip shop, on Kenyons Lane, St Helens, as a trespasser and the 14-year-old has been charged with breaching his bail conditions.

Hatton, of Dudley Place, St Helens, was remanded in custody while the 14-year-old was placed under a 7pm-7am curfew.

The pair will next appear before Liverpool Crown Court for a plea and case management hearing on April 1.

A provisional trial date has been set for May 11.

Effective support to beat addictions

New figures show that St Helens has some of the most effective support for alcohol and drug problems in England.

The figures, from Public Health England, measure recovery rates for people in drug and alcohol treatment - to calculate the numbers of those now termed 'free of dependence'.

In 2013 over half (57.4 per cent) of those seeking help in St Helens for serious challenges with alcohol successfully completed their treatment. The figures put St Helens in the top ten of all 150 counties and unitary authorities in England for people successfully completing treatment for alcohol.

Treatment of drug dependence is also a success. Successful completions for opiate addiction (heroin and crack cocaine) doubled since 2012.

The new figures see St Helens in 22nd place out of 149 authorities for people successfully completing drug treatment for addiction to opiates and ninth out of 149 for people successfully completing treatment for non-opiates – such as powder cocaine or stimulants.

In all, 10.9 per cent of people successfully completed their treatment for opiate use while 49.7 per cent successfully completed treatment for non-opiate use. The St Helens figures are higher than both the national and North West averages and put the borough at the top of its league when compared with areas suffering similar levels of deprivation.

St Helens Council's Director of Public Health Liz Gaulton said: "These figures show how successful our drug and alcohol treatment is here in St Helens. We have free, modern, completely confidential services available to mums, dads, older people, - in fact anyone who is drinking too much or abusing substances.

"The message is simple - there is no need to struggle alone and effective support is available now. The Addaction service will evensupport you to take the first steps - just ring 01744 610555."

St Helens Council's Cabinet Member for Public Health and Wellbeing Councillor Andy Bowden added: "People can be frightened when it comes to getting help, but the reality is that anyone can experience these problems.

"The support that's available is delivered not just by doctors, nurses and professional substance misuse workers, but often by people who've been through these challenges themselves."

A hard-luck story and sister superior hurt

Here's what was hitting the headlines in the St Helens Reporter 60 years ago this week.

There were no excuses from the Eric Marsden camp but his title fight with Dai Dewer still went down as another hard-luck story.

Marsden's ill luck began in the fourth round when his nose collided with Dewer's head, leaving him struggling to breathe freely for the rest of the bout.

Then, in the eighth round, the St Helens boxer injured his right hand when he hit Dewer high on the head.

The Marsden camp did not dispute that Dewer may still have won without the injuries, but argued that the fight would have been "more open".

In other news from February 1955, a bouquet, a message of good wishes for a speedy recovery and a not of regret that she couldn't attend an annual dance at the Town Hall was sent by the Notre Dame Association and Notre Dame Past Students' Association to the sister superior of the convent in North Road.

The sister was in Providence Hospital receiving treatment for a broken leg.

Elsewhere, more than 3,300 houses had been built in St Helens since April 1954.

In total, 3,378 houses had been completed and another 380 were under construction.

Of those completed, 275 were temporary homes.

And finally, more than 100 guests were present at the golden wedding celebrations of Mr and Mrs James Swift.

The couple, of Jubits Lane, Sutton Manor, married at Newtown Congregational Church in January 1905.

The party had been planned in secret by the couple's family and Mr and Mrs Swift knew nothing about it until the week before.

We love to hear your memories on the pictures we feature, including if you can put names to the faces. We also love to see your Memory Lane pictures you would like to share with readers.
You can email them over to sthelens.reporter@lep.co.uk – or by post to Retro, St Helens Reporter, Martland Mill, Martland Mill Lane, Wigan, WN5 0LX or bring them in to us during office hours.

A view from Lowe House Church

By Chris Amery

@ChrisAmery2

Taken from the tower of Lowe House Church, this fantastic photo looks in the direction of the railway line across a landscape which was about to be transformed by a legion of construction workers.

The busy rail siding had scores of loaded rail wagons awaiting an engine to draw them to the main line.

The railway age came to St Helens in the 1830s when the St Helens and Runcorn Gap Railway was established to transport coal to the Mersey. Industrialists raised £120,000 to establish the link.

NHS
St Helens Clinical Commissioning Group

NOT SURE IF IT'S AN EMERGENCY? CALL NHS111

With winter illnesses like flu and norovirus circulating, there is increasing pressure on hospital services.

NHS St Helens Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) is highlighting the telephone health service available in St Helens to help people access the right health services first time.

Dr Stephen Cox, Clinical Chief Executive (NHS St Helens CCG) said: "If you're generally fit and healthy, you may be unsure what to do or where to go with unexpected or urgent healthcare needs. In most instances people don't need A&E or 999, and accessing more suitable healthcare could result in being seen quicker.

"NHS111 makes it easy for you to access healthcare advice when you need medical help fast, but it's not a life-threatening situation."

NHS111 is a free number, which is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The call handlers can provide health advice, put you in touch with the right service, arrange to have you seen by a doctor or call you an ambulance. The service is manned by trained call handlers with nurses on site to offer support if needed. Callers' symptoms are assessed and they are given the healthcare advice they need or are directed immediately to the right service. St Helens CCG is asking that A&E and 999 is only used for emergencies such as heavy blood loss, chest pains, loss of consciousness or broken bones.

Dr Cox added: "We ask the public to think before they go to A&E or call 999. These services need to be free to deal with real emergencies and should only be used in genuine emergency situations such as the signs of stroke or heart attack.

"Telephone services such as NHS111 are designed to offer answers, reassurance, advice and support you need as well as being convenient and open around the clock."

Get clued before going online

Police in St Helens are backing a campaign to help create a safer internet.

Safer Internet Day is being celebrated in countries across the world.

The aim is to promote safe, responsible and positive use of the internet and social media by children and young people.

Det Supt Richie Carr urged more people to get clued up. He said: "If we all take just a minute or two out of our day to learn a little more about this issue we can all help make the internet a safer and more pleasant place to socialise and share our experiences with others."

Children know beer better than biscuits

Health chiefs in St Helens have highlighted a campaign which showed that children in the North West find it easier to recognise beer brands than biscuits.

They say the Drink Wise campaign shows more needs to be done to promote the importance of understanding the effects of alcohol.

St Helens director of public health Liz Gaulton said: "We are also committed to protecting children from alcohol at a local level.

"We actively encourage parents to talk with their children about the harm associated with alcohol, and also to act as good role models within the home."

Man hurt in car crash

A man was hospitalised after being cut free from a car following a crash.

Emergency crews were called to Gillars Lane in Eccleston shortly after 9.15pm last Wednesday (February 4).

Firefighters used hydraulic cutting gear to extricate a man who was trapped inside a vehicle which had come to rest on its side.

Part of the roof was cut and folded to allow firefighters to safely remove the man on a long board and hand him into the care of paramedics before he was rushed to hospital.

Launch of new reminder plan

By Natalie Walker
natalie.walker@jpress.co.uk
@NWalkerWIG

Health chiefs are launching a new reminder system to help patients remember their hospital appointments.

Chief executive Ann Marr

The new service will contact patients of Whiston and St Helens hospitals to confirm the date and time of their next appointment, and whether they will be able to attend.

Ann Marr, chief executive of St Helens and Knowsley Teaching Hospitals NHS Trust, hopes the new reminder service will reduce the number of missed appointments, help patients to be seen quicker and save the taxpayer millions.

"We are always looking for ways to further improve the experience of our patients and the new call reminder system will help to make our services even more efficient," she said.

"It is really important that patients let us know if they cannot attend the hospital.

"Their appointment can be rearranged and another patient on the waiting list can benefit from the free space. This allows us to maximise the time of our doctors and nurses to the fullest."

NHS figures suggest more than 6.9 million outpatient appointments are missed each year, causing serious delays in treatment to other patients, and costing over £100 per appointment.

The NHS launched a series of simple initiatives – such as sending email and text reminders – in 2008 to tackle the problem of missed appointments.

This saw the rate of appointments not attended fall from 10.5 per cent in 2008/9 to 9.1 per cent by 2014, and it is hoped that the new measures will reduce this figure further.

Police discover cannabis farm in house

By Chris Amery
chris.amery@jpress.co.uk
@CAmery2

Police uncovered a cannabis farm inside a St Helens house.

Officers discovered nearly 400 cannabis plants during a raid at a house on Albion Street.

The plants, which were in different stages of growth, were found in three upstairs bedrooms and the loft.

A total of 372 plants, with an estimated annual yield of nearly £1.5m, were removed from the property as well as sophisticated hydroponic growing equipment. The electricity was also found to have been illegally bypassed.

Detectives are keen to speak to a man described as Asian and about 5ft 6ins tall who had been seen entering and leaving the rented property over the past few weeks.

Insp Dave Brennan said: "Cannabis cultivation by criminal gangs can cause serious harm in our communities. Criminal groups involved in the cultivation of cannabis are usually involved in other serious organised crime and they often rent residential properties such as this.

"The growing of cannabis also brings dangers to neighbouring properties. Cannabis farms are a serious fire risk.

"Those who set up these farms often tamper with the electricity meters to steal electricity, and there will generally be a number of hot lamps hooked to overloaded electricity sockets and an extensive watering system.

The cannabis farm

"Electricity and water are never a good combination and the fire service have seen an increase in the number of fires they have been called to as a result of fires caused by the crude systems put in place by the people who set up these farms."

He added: "Our communities can help us stop these groups, who are only interested in making money, from turning houses and flats into potential death traps.

"Nobody wants to live next door to these houses and we would ask that if you believe someone is using a property in a street for this purpose please tell us so we can take positive action and find those responsible for setting them up."

Anyone with any information can call St Helens CID on 0151 777 6812, or Crimestoppers, in confidence, on 0800 555 111.

Pupils boost charity

Youngsters at a Billinge primary school have raised more than £750 for a cancer charity in memory of a "friend of the school" who succumbed to the disease.

Children at St Aidan's in Billinge pledged to raise money for the Clatterbridge Cancer Hospital in honour of regular visitor Paul Caine.

Mr Caine visited St Aidan's and other schools across the borough to lead worship on behalf of the Seedlings Trust and pioneered Sta's 4 all, a project aimed at promoting all-age worship.

He also organised craft activities and singing for the children on the fourth Sunday of every month - a tradition the school is determined to continue with.

Executive headteacher Melanie Ravenscroft said: "Paul was an inspirational man who has left a lasting legacy across so many schools.

"He had a natural gift to be able to captivate, entertain and inspire children."

Falling in love with public transport

This Valentine's Day, why not show some love for the council's pioneering "Saveaway Saturday" scheme?

The popular offer, which is wholly funded by the Local Sustainable Transport Fund (LSTF) from the Department for Transport (DfT), started in December and offers you the opportunity to visit the town centre on Saturdays and travel on the bus completely free!

The aim of the scheme is to ensure those without access to a car aren't disadvantaged and prevented from shopping or spending their leisure time in the town.

It's also an incentive for those who might otherwise have driven at their own expense, to choose the cheaper and greener option.

In order to avoid the complexities of car-driving on Valentine's Day (parking, congestion and worrying about enjoying a glass of bubbly) why not go on your date by bus?

Simply cut out and complete the voucher displayed on this page and take to the Merseytravel office within St Helens town centre bus station.

There, it will be exchanged for a Zone A Saveaway ticket for any one Saturday in February.*

The ticket is valid on all bus operators within the St.Helens area, and even some train routes too.

Further details are available online at www.sthelens.gov.uk/saturdaybus and other public transport information can be found using the route planner located at www.merseytravel.gov.uk or by calling 0151 236 7676.

This scheme is part of a wider package of council initiatives to try and encourage more sustainable travel within the region, combatting congestion, pollution, climate change and contributing to a healthier St. Helens. Other aspects of this wider agenda include improvements to walking and cycling facilities throughout the borough, such as the long-term plan to improve facilities along the Sankey Valley and the Travelwise Personal Travel Plan (PTP) service.

All of this information, as well as bus and train timetables and fares, cycling and walking routes, sustainable travel and tailor-made journeys are available now. For information on the Personal Travel Plan service, head to Twitter @TravelwisePTP or Facebook at www.facebook.com/TravelWisePTPStHelens You can also call 0800 066 2746.

* Zone A routes only. Saturday must be chosen at time of swap. The voucher has to be completed fully in order to be valid.

The information gathered is anonymous, but will be used by the Council's Transport Planning team to help understand travel patterns into the town centre at weekends and to plan future service changes and subsidy schemes.

Now running throughout February...

Vets back campaign to bring in tougher airgun regulation

By Natalie Walker
natalie.walker@jpress.co.uk
@NWalkerWIG

Vets in St Helens are backing calls to tighten laws about airguns to prevent pets being shot.

As a survey by British Veterinary Association (BVA) reveals that four in 10 surgeries have been presented with a cat who has been shot, it has produced a General Election manifesto that calls for better animal enforcement of animal welfare legislation.

Cats Protection has also launched its Manifesto for Cats in the Commons, which seeks tighter regulations on the licensing of airguns.

Last December, two-year-old Rosie survived after she was shot twice in the head, in Whiston, leaving her family distraught.

Several vets pointed to an increase during the school summers holidays, pointing to the perpetrators being young people and children.

The news comes as John Blackwell BVA president said: "Anyone using an airgun, whether they are an adult or child, should be aware of the very serious injuries these weapons inflict and parents should act responsibly when allowing any young person to use or possess one."

Cats Protection's advocacy manager Jacqui Cuff said: "We know from our own monitoring of the press last year that nearly five cats a week were reported to have been killed or injured by airguns in the UK – and this is likely to be an underestimate."

Anybody found guilty of causing unnecessary suffering to an animal can face a maximum six-month jail term.

Rosie recovers from her injuries

Labour candidate picked to fight general election

Labour officials have elected Conor McGinn to succeed Dave Watts as their candidate in St Helens North.

Mr McGinn is a seasoned political operator and currently works as a senior advisor to Vernon Coaker, the shadow defence secretary.

He secured the position after a lengthy hustings meeting at St Helens town hall on Sunday afternoon.

Previously, the married dad-of-one had impressed party activists during hundreds of one-to-one meetings with his intellect and commitment Labour politics.

He saw off competition from an unusually strong field of candidates, including council leader Barrie Grunewald and former mayor Andy Bowden.

Ex-council leader Marie Rimmer is standing in the St Helens South ward.

COMMENT

Council leader
Barrie Grunewald

Conor's got my backing

Congratulations to Conor McGinn, who has been selected as Labour Candidate for St Helens North at the forthcoming general election.

As you know, I was also in the running – and I was grateful for the opportunity to set out my vision for the borough should I have been selected.

But it wasn't to be. I will now of course be concentrating all my efforts on ensuring that Conor becomes our MP in May. I look forward to working with him and wish him every success.

We've seen a lot written about the performance of our schools lately - and I'll be the first to admit that there is still much work to do.

But it's equally apparent that that work is already well underway – and that things are moving in the right direction.

We fully accept the Ofsted report covering De La Salle School, but since the inspection took place actions to improve matters have been taking place. The school is improving and, overall, standards in St Helens schools are on the way up.

Our KS4 performance (five A* - C including English and maths) has closed the gap on national averages and is now higher than Knowsley (35.4 per cent), Liverpool (49.9 per cent) and Sefton (55 per cent).

We're doing all we can to help schools by creating an environment in which they can flourish.

We've recruited some outstanding practitioners to work with our head teachers and, based on current performance, we expect our secondary schools to improve their judgements over the coming months.

Understandably, secondary schools will always be a focal point for concern, but parents and carers can rest assured that as far as academic results are concerned, St Helens is more than holding its own – and things are set to improve further.

It's also worth pointing out that another vital aspect of our work in this area involves the safety of our children. Despite ever more stringent requirements in the aftermath of the Savile affair - and more pressure on local authorities to ensure children are safe from harm – the recent Ofsted report on children's social care concluded that children are safe in St Helens - and that referrals and child protection enquiries are handled quickly and effectively.

This is against a background of continued pressure on resources - with St Helens Children and Young Peoples Services department having achieved savings of £18 million since 2010-11.

It was with great sorrow that I learned of the passing of my colleague Councillor Bill Anderton last week.

Bill was a remarkable man who was extremely proud to serve his home patch of Haydock - and always did so with his heart on his sleeve.

Ever since he became ward councillor for Haydock in 2010, Bill ensured that the voices of the people of Haydock were heard in town hall matters. That was Bill in a nutshell - always putting the people he represented first.

He was a great servant to the Labour party and I have many fond memories of working with him.

But Bill was more than just a colleague - he was a valued friend who will be deeply missed by all.

'Bill was more than just a colleague - he was a valued friend'

Car burst into flames after collision

Emergency crews were called after a collision between a car and HGV sparked a fire.

Firefighters from the Newton-le-Willows station were called to the St Helens stretch of the M62 shortly before 4pm on Sunday (February 8).

Watch manager George Jennings said: "The fire initially involved the engine compartment of the car but had spread. The car was in the middle lane of the carriageway and was well alight.

"Firefighters worked quickly to rapidly extinguish the fire."

Two fire appliances, including another from Eccleston Community Fire Station, attended the call-out. The force's search and rescue Team also responded.

Switch together and save together

A new round of collective switching has been launched for Merseyside. St Helens householders are invited to be a part of it and see how much they could save on their energy bills.

The Switch Together, Save Together scheme is organised by local charity, Energy Projects Plus, and is backed by St Helens Council, alongside the other Merseyside local authorities.

The last Merseyside Collective Switch took place in September and saved St Helens residents an average of £203 a year, with the top saver saving £703 a year.

Collective switching works by asking people to register their interest, then using collective buying power to negotiate an exclusive tariff from energy suppliers. The exclusive tariff is only available to those who register for the collective switch.

Previous rounds of the Merseyside Collective Switch have attracted exclusive offers from E.on, British Gas, Npower, Scottish Power, The Co-operative Energy and Good Energy and have included tariffs for direct debit, payment on receipt of bill and prepayment customers.

The last two collectives have included deals that were the cheapest on the market and only available to those who registered.

The winning tariffs are shown against other tariffs on the market, so householders can clearly see if it's a good deal for them. They can switch to any of these tariffs through the scheme. If they don't find a better tariff they don't have to switch, there's no obligation. The scheme aims to make it safer and easier to switch supplier, and expert advisors are on hand to offer free and impartial help every step of the way.

Mrs Margaret Duffy from St Helens took part in the collective switch and saved £700 a year on her energy bills. She said, "I would definitely recommend the collective switch to others. It only took a few minutes to register, the information about the tariffs was clear and switching was quick and easy. I'm really glad that I took part because the savings are so great! If you're not sure about switching or haven't switched for a while, this is a good way to do it."

So far, over £424,000 has been saved by Merseyside householders switching their tariff through the Merseyside Collective Switch, and £51,400 has been saved by St Helens residents alone.

Ellie Abernethy, Project Manager of the scheme at Energy Projects Plus said "We're all feeling the pinch at this time of year, and the rising cost of energy can be a real strain on household budgets. This is a great opportunity for the people of Merseyside to join together and collectively benefit from reduced energy bills. This collective switch hopes to be the biggest yet, and we're aiming to get some great deals for the people of Merseyside. It's free and easy to join, we'll let you know how much you could save before you switch and there's no obligation to switch if you decide not to."

The offers will be announced on 2nd March and you need to register before then in order to find out about the exclusive deals.

You can join the collective switch at www.LCRenergyswitch.co.uk or by calling the local Save Energy Advice Line on freephone 0800 043 0151, where residents can also get free and impartial help and advice about saving energy at home.

SPOTLIGHT ON Valentine's Day

This week we will celebrate our feelings of affection for our boyfriends, girlfriends, husbands and wives.

It is traditional to do this with a special romantic gift. Looking for a Valentine's Day Gift for him or the perfect token of love for her, well here are a couple of helping advertisers to choose from?

Whether its flowers from Wendy's, Hair Voucher at Glam Hair or jewellery form Pandora you won't go for wrong.

Each year on February 14 , many people exchange cards, candy, gifts or flowers with their special Valentine.

The day of romance we call Valentine's Day is named after a Christian martyr and dates back to the fifth century, but has origins in the Roman holiday Lupercalia.

There are varying opinions as to the origin of Valentine's Day. Some experts state that it originated from St Valentine, a Roman who was martyred for refusing to give up Christianity.

He died on February 14, 269 AD. Legend also says that St Valentine left a farewell note for the jailer's daughter, who had become his friend, and signed it "From Your Valentine".

Other aspects of the story say that St Valentine served as a priest at the temple during the reign of Emperor Claudius. Claudius then had Valentine jailed for defying him.

In 496 AD Pope Gelasius set aside February 14 to honour St Valentine. Gradually, February 14 became the date for exchanging love messages and St Valentine became the patron saint of lovers. The date was marked by sending poems and simple gifts such as flowers and candy. There was often a social gathering or a ball.

In the United States, Miss Esther Howland is given credit for sending the first Valentine cards. Commercial Valentines were introduced in the 1800s and now the date is very commercialised.

The spirit of good continues as valentines are sent out with sentimental verses and children exchange valentine cards even at school.

So as we approach the day of love, make sure you prepare and do the right thing. Send a gift, a voucher and a card to the one you love. And make sure you have a great Valentine weekend.

Don't let damp get you down

Julia Gray offers five tips for keeping your property dry and in top condition

How to...

For more advice on maintaining your home's guttering, including ladder safety, watch B&Q's guide at www.youtube.com/watch?v=-zFoynqYkCM.

1 Leaking high-level gutters and/or rainwater pipes – these are a common cause of low dampness in walls, especially in solid external walls. Gutters and rainwater pipes can get blocked with falling leaves and other debris and should be cleaned out and checked for defects from time to time. The Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings (SPAB) has a useful guide to guttering maintenance – for all types of building – at www.spab.org.uk/media-centre.

2 High abutting external ground levels – either at or above the line of the original damp proof course (DPC), or at or above the level of the internal floor. As a guide, ground levels externally should be a minimum of 15cm below the DPC.

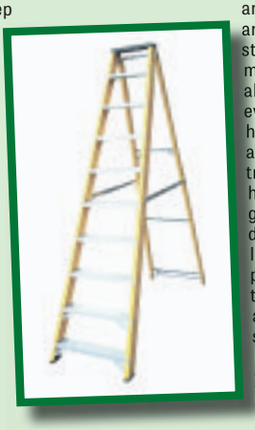
3 Blocked external vents to ground floors – the void underneath a suspended floor must be ventilated to prevent a build-up of moisture, as excessive moisture can lead to low-level dampness in the walls and will eventually decay a suspended wooden floor. If you have a suspended floor, check that the air bricks providing ventilation aren't blocked, obstructed or missing

4 Chimneys and fire hearths – open chimney pots can allow rainwater to penetrate into the chimney cavity and permeate right down through the building. Also, due to the construction of some buildings, usually pre-Edwardian ones, dampness can be drawn up from the ground below into the chimney breast and reveal walls.

5 General defects – lots of common defects in buildings can result in internal dampness, including poor or defective mortar courses in external walls, defective sealant around windows and doors, poorly maintained wooden windows and doors, and broken, cracked or defective stone window sills.

Product of the week

If your home has high ceilings, preparing and decorating those ceilings can be too much of a stretch with a conventional step ladder - it's time to call in the big boys. The Lyte GFBB10 Swingback Builders Step Ladder (£114.99, Screwfix, product code 11947) is 2.17m high when opened and 2.34m high when closed (other sizes are available from Screwfix), so there's not a lot of ceilings it can't be used to reach.



Best of all, it's really sturdy and well made - unlike a lot of step ladders, there's no alarming wobble when you're up it, plus the feet are non-slip and the rungs are non-slip and strengthened, meaning you always feel safe, even at great heights. There's also a useful tool tray so you don't have to keep going up and down. Ladders like this are popular with tradespeople and it's easy to see why - this ladder will see you through many years of DIY safely and without a wobble, which makes it worth its weight in gold.

Property GARDENS

Medieval ways, do they work?

The Ruralia Commoda, from 1304, contains some interesting ideas about planting

I've heard of some strange gardening practices over the years, but some of the tips offered in a medieval gardening book which is said to have inspired Henry VIII's lost Great Garden at Whitehall Palace take the biscuit.

The Ruralia Commoda, written in 1304, due to go on display at an exhibition at Buckingham Palace in March, claims that a squash will bear fruit after nine days if planted in the ashes of human bones and watered with oil, and that cucumbers shake at the sound of thunder.

It also mentions that lettuce loves goat manure and that combining the seeds of lettuce, radishes, nasturtium and colewort will result in a particularly tasty crop of greens. The book, which will be displayed alongside some of the earliest and rarest surviving records of gardens and plants from the Royal Collection, entered Henry VIII's library after the death of its owner, the King's chaplain Richard Rawson, in 1543 and explains the importance of a king's garden to the Tudors.

But just how much truth is there in its horticultural growing tips?

Guy Barter, head of the RHS advisory service, says: "They didn't have squashes as we know them in those days."

Perhaps the Latin text has been lost in translation.

"It would have been a marrow. Squashes come from North America, which hadn't been discovered at that time. If you watered oil on the ground it would have no fertiliser effect. It might inhibit loss of moisture by evaporation but it wouldn't control pests.

"They would have used vegetable oil as they didn't have synthetic oil in those days and it would have been broken down in the soil. But if an old-fashioned gardener wanted to give it a go, it wouldn't do any harm. Just don't use engine oil!" The manual also suggests that lettuce loves goat manure; and Barter agrees.

"Gardeners throughout history have gathered sheep manure which is an excellent quality and balanced feed, not too high in nitrogen like bird manure and probably better than cow manure. The problem is, goats are pretty thin on the ground nowadays. If you can get hold of a goat, I'm sure there's potential there."

Burnt human bones were obviously valued for their horticultural properties in Henry VIII's day - and they would have added nutrients to the soil, Barter agrees.

"Mixtures of blood, fish and bones are widely sold today. Bones are a very good fertiliser. Before they had good machinery to grind up bones into bonemeal, they would have been burned and the ashes would have been rich in phosphorous and in lime. Whether human bones are better than any other bones, I wouldn't like to say."

While it's not the case today, in Tudor times many soils were deficient in phosphorous. The growing of root vegetables and legumes was often inhibited by lack of phosphorous, which is needed for the healthy production of roots and good root systems.

"Plants don't use much phosphorous but there's desperately little of it in virgin soil, so it was lacking until the invention of the fertiliser industry in the mid-19th century," says Barter.

He is, however, flummoxed by the claim that cucumbers shake with fear at the sound of thunder.

"I've never seen a cucumber shake with fear," he laughs. "They would have been grown in cold frames covered with glass or wax. But even so, I can't imagine why a cucumber would shake with fear. There's a lot of thunder at RHS Garden Wisley and a lot of cucumbers and they've always remained rather stoic."

However, the 14th century manual was ahead of its time in some respects, declaring that combining the seeds of lettuce, radishes, nasturtium and colewort will result in a particularly tasty crop of greens.

"Isn't that amazing? They predicted the invention of bagged mixed salads by hundreds of years. What a brilliant idea! It's come full circle. We used to grow everything separately and now gardeners have come back to sow these mixed salad packs and grow their own versions of the supermarket ones.

"Those plants would all grow happily in the same soil together. Radishes are a little bit hairy, but there are versions of radish that haven't got hairy leaves so perhaps the Tudors grew those. But they would all combine well together."

THREE BEDROOM PERIOD DETACHED HOUSE ON A CORNER PLOT

Did George Formby write a song about this house? Built in the Second World War period you could be leaning against the lamp post on the corner of the street, and we guess you could be waiting for a certainly little lady to go by! This detached property has it all, lots of potential, lots of space, in and out, as would be expected from that time. With a little imagination this could be turned into a great family home, oh me, oh my! D61

PRICE £169,950
3 BEDROOM

Elm Gr, Eccleston Park £595,000

"PROVENANCE!" Constructed to what was probably an individual design, possibly for Thomas Roby, a few years prior to the First World War, this substantial detached residence has not only almost 3,400 sq.ft. of living space but has the character that comes from a period when design was all about comfort. The property has six bedrooms, a study area and two bathrooms across the top two floors. The rooms that would have been used by the domestic staff are all still here, along with evidence of the calling bells. The grounds are varied and there are various outbuildings and a large double garage. Nostalgia at its best! F29

Oak Tree Road, Eccleston £379,995

This substantial and modern detached home has been developed to create a great family home with plenty of space. No effort has been spared to make sure this is a high standard house. Every room is worthy of mention from the kitchen through the bathrooms and then on to the bedrooms and living rooms. D67

Plenty of parking and a decked garden to the rear complete this episode! D62

OUR COMMENT

New head to provide a fresh impetus

There's no doubt that Hope Academy is in need of a fresh impetus.

And that's exactly what new headteacher Patrick Ferguson will be hoping to provide.

He's certainly got the right CV for the job, having already turned around a school in Liverpool which is now rated by Ofsted as "outstanding".

Clearly, he's got a big job on his hands - but it's one that he's supremely confident he can achieve.

In fact, he's so confident that many of the required improvements have already been made that he reckons the school could quite easily be classed as "good" if inspectors were to go in today.

The level of parental support is key, too.

The fact that so many parents turned out to hear Mr Ferguson's plans for the school on a dark, cold January evening shows that they are not only invested in their children's education - but that they are also loyal to the school.

It's about time that loyalty was repaid.

Mr Ferguson's mantra of introducing a more efficient, professionally-run school is sure to have struck a chord.

Let's hope the next time the inspectors go in the changes are already so ingrained in the school that they simply cannot fault them in the same way again.

POLITICS

Why politics have always been a game

As leader of St Helens Labour Council how on earth could Barrie Grunewald enforce any possible discipline and control 'loose cannon' Carole Gill for stabbing a fellow labour Councillor in the back and 'pinching his seat' when he, setting the precedent, did exactly the same thing himself to Marie Rimmer; who as it happen is Ms Gill's aunt.

This council is rudderless and drifting and at least three of their top leaders now want 'off' the ship to be even considered to become our MP's.

None were properly accountable to us when councillors and are certainly not worthy of higher public office, so look elsewhere St Helens citizens.

One of their council chamber favourite pastimes, it would appear, was the game of 'pass the dagger' and they ruthlessly back-stabbed anyone, friend or foe, who 'stands' in their selfish way.

EDUCATION

You have to laugh at the Tories

Now they've messed up the school league tables. None other than Harrow, one of the elite public schools in the country, asked the Department for Education if the international GCSE system was acceptable to teach. The answer they got was yes. Halfway through the year, Ministers did a u-turn and said no. Now Harrow languishes near the bottom.

This is just one of many botch jobs done by our politicians.

Looking back at my sister's teaching portfolio, it seems the politicians meddle every year, but make radical changes every two or three years. How teachers tolerate this I will never understand. In reality, many leave.

This leads to the vacuous promise by David Cameron that he will freeze spending on schools and wage war on poor performing ones.

My daughter is in a class size of 40. It only needs three or so kids to kick off and a 45 minute lesson is wasted. How can this man promise improvements with such huge class sizes and no extra money? The answer is he can't, particularly because, having been to Eton, he doesn't understand the problem.

Showcasing towns' artistic talent

ST Helens and Wigan may be rivals on the rugby league field, but the town's art scene is more than happy to showcase its neighbour's talent.

Artists from across Wigan are currently showcasing their skills in a major exhibition at the World of Glass.

The show has been put together for all the professional artists who are based in the studio space at Cross Street Arts in Standish, which was founded in 2004.

The World of Glass show features a huge variety of styles and subjects, with sculptures and paintings covering topics as wide ranging as landscapes and nature, war, satirical or political comments on everyday life and culture and also including some abstract pieces.

The exhibition at the Chalon Way East attraction runs until February 28 and is open Monday to Saturday from 10am until 4pm.

For more information about the studio, search for Cross Street Arts on Facebook or visit www.okstudios.org

History on the stage

Pilkingtons group to stage antique show

By Andy Moffatt

A well known St Helens theatre company with over 90 years of history is looking for new members.

The Pilkington Musical Theatre Company has gone from strength to strength over the decades.

Over the past few years productions have included Blood Brothers, The Wedding Singer Musical and last year's successful The Addams Family Musical.

The group were nominated for six National Operatic and Dramatic Association awards including, Best Actor in a Musical (Si Foster), Best Actress in a Musical (Diane Glover), Best Choreographer (Anna Wilkinson), Best Comedy part in a Musical (Brian Dargie), Best Male and Female Youth in an Adult Production (Stefan Davies and Daisy Shuttleworth).

The awards recently took place and the company won two awards for Brian Dargie and Daisy Shuttleworth.

A group spokesman said: "To build up on the success of the awards and last years show we are to perform the newly released 'Acorn Antiques the Musical' written and orchestrated by the brilliant Victoria Wood.

"The company is also looking for new members who want to take part when rehearsals start every Thursday evening in the coming weeks. More information can be reached via 01744 616531 or by visiting the company facebook page; Pilkingtons Musical Theatre Company."

The show is being performed September 24 to 26 at the Theatre Royal. Tickets are now on sale and are available from the theatre's website or box office on 01744 756000.

HAMPTON
Edna (nee Shawcross)
Kay & Jonathan wish to thank all who helped in saying farewell to their dearly loved mum. Special thanks go to Allan Stockley, the celebrant, David Forber and Marjorie Singleton for their readings and her beloved son in law Jim Monaghan for the Eulogy. The glorious flowers were provided by 2Lips Florist, Stockton Heath and the staff at St. Anne & Blessed Dominic Club provided excellent refreshments. The funeral directors, Fisher & Dixon, especially Joanne, Rachel and Michelle, have been a great support, with their care and professionalism, as were the staff in the Willows Unit of the Old Vicarage, Burtonwood, her last home. Last but not least, we thank those friends & family who attended the ceremony and those who were unable to come but sent their thoughts, Mass cards and donations. Edna would have been pleased.

MAURICE REYNOLDS
The family of the late
Maurice
would like to thank all relatives and friends for their kind expressions of sympathy and support during their recent sad loss. Thanks to C2 Ward at Whiston Hospital for their excellent care and kindness they gave to Maurice. To all the doctors at Central Surgery for their care during Maurice's illness. Also, thanks to Janet Rooney and the other District Nurses. Thank you to all the neighbours and friends who visited Maurice and supported him. A special thank you to his friend Geoffrey for all his kindness and support. Thanks to Father Tom Gagie and Stuart for all their spiritual guidance and support. To F W Marsh Family Funeral Directors for a caring and professional service and lastly a very special thanks to Jean, Ken and Jeanette who without their help and support, Susan, Maurice's wife would not have been able to be at his side when most needed. God Bless.

ROAD TEST: HONDA CR-V 2015

Honda have taken scalpel to the CR-V

By Matt Joy
newsroom@lancspublications.co.uk
@StHelensReport

Still in the first flush of youth, Honda has taken the scalpel to its CR-V and added some impressive new features.

Honda's mid-sized take on the SUV segment is still relatively young but that hasn't stopped the Japanese firm taking a scalpel to it inside and out – in fact it's sufficiently comprehensive that you could almost call it version 2.0.

The popular 1.6-litre diesel option is now available in 158bhp format as well as the original 119bhp guise and there's the option of a new nine-speed automatic transmission to go with it.

The nose has been updated with a new look and there's changes on the inside too including a new infotainment system, more sound-proofing and safety systems. Even the suspension and steering have been revised.

The ride and handling are very impressive too. Lumps and bumps are soaked up remarkably well yet it clings on gamely through the bends with plenty of grip and very little in the way of bodyroll.

Prices are yet to be confirmed but expect only a slight increase over the outgoing model, which means good value.

Peterson fires in the deciding goal

NORTH WEST COUNTIES LEAGUE

ST HELENS TOWN 1
BOOTLE 2

The Merseyside Derby that matter most in St Helens saw Town take a first half lead but visitors Bootle left with the spoils after a second half comeback by the Bucks.

Action from the St Helens v Bootle clash.

Bootle had an early effort from Sam Wilkie which beat Rory Crowther in the Town goal chalked off for a push in the back on Aaron Morris and quickly at the other end James Rushton-Woods did well on the right and sent a cross to the front post for skipper Andy Gillespie but he could only steer his effort into the side netting. Town took the lead on the half hour mark when after a foul on the edge of the box Rushton-Woods saw his free kick tipped over and he then sent a left wing corner into the box which was allowed to bounce in the six yard box before Gillespie headed it home as it rose up to head height. At the other end Town were grateful to Crowther and a slice of good fortune as first the keeper smothered an effort from Tom Peterson and then we grateful to gather a loose ball which rebounded off the post from an effort by James McGrane under pressure from Town left back Jack Hont.

A seven minute spell from the hour mark was to prove vital and decide the destination of the three points.

First the visitors drew level when Kieran Haligan got to the byline on the left before finding the unmarked James McGrane who steered the ball home into the bottom left hand corner of the net.

Town looked visibly rocked and it took Bootle just seven minutes to take the lead when a soft free kick from the edge of the box was met by Jamie Hay and he headed the ball to the far post where the visitors were queuing up to turn the ball home and it was Peterson who applied the finish to put the Bucks into the lead.

With a quarter of an hour left Gillespie collected a through ball and looked to have broken away from Hay but the centre half recovered well and as the striker pulled the trigger he managed to get back into position and block the effort.

Late on Town again had young stopper Crowther to thank for keeping our Bootle as a well struck free kick from former Town man Mark Kilroy was kept out by an excellent save from the keeper but Town could not muster an equaliser and they were left rueing a seven minute spell of craziness which had cost them dearly.

Town take the trip North to Barnoldwick Town the Saturday, February 14, kick off 3pm before "welcoming" landlords Ashton Athletic to Brocstedes Park the following Tuesday, 17th February with a 7.45pm kick off.

New boy makes swift return

SAINTS

Reigning champions Saints have made a surprise swoop for Dewsbury prop Matthew Haggarty.

The 24-year-old former Whitehaven, Barrow and Oldham forward has signed a three-year contract with Saints but has been loaned back to the Championship club ahead of Friday's opening game against Sheffield Eagles.

Saints chief executive Mike Rush said: "We're delighted to have agreed terms with Matthew. He is a forward of promise and we look forward to seeing him develop within our system.We are constantly looking for new talent throughout the rugby league pyramid and Derek Traynor, head coach of our 19s, recommended we took a look at Matthew. We like what we see and we are pleased to have reached an agreement with the Rams. They have been very professional in our dealings. Matthew will train for us during the week and play with Dewsbury, where we will monitor his progress."

Saints new signing Matthew Haggarty with head coach Keiron Cunningham and chairman Eamoonn McManus Dewsbury chairman Mark Sawyer said: "In recent weeks, three Super League clubs have shown an interest in Matthew.

"I would like to thank St Helens for the professional manner in which they have dealt with the transfer, but also in the compensation package they offered to the Rams."

Haggarty, a former junior at Leigh Miners, said: "I am excited by the opportunity of taking a contract with Saints but at the same time sad to be leaving Dewsbury."

TALKING SPORT
With JOHN YATES

Praise be to Sky TV's coverage

SKY TV's saturated coverage of the build up to Super League XX deserves the highest praise possible.

Linking-up live with all 12 clubs on the day Widnes Vikings and Wigan Warriors launched the new season on the back of a pulsating 22-22 draw was a masterstroke and I firmly believe played a major role in making the turnstiles click merrily.

So, too, did the introduction of a new league format which ensures every match counts in the race for top honours.

A total of 63,435 spectators flocked to the six fixtures which resulted in a highly commendable five figure average turn out.

The Saints-Catalans Dragons clash pulled in the biggest crowd with 12,008 fans flocking to Langtree Park and when one remembers that the French club rarely bring more than a handful of fans to away matches that represents a more than satisfactory attendance.

Obviously, one or two will have been attracted by the prospect of seeing the French club's Aussie superstar Todd Carney making his Super League debut but unfortunately the so-called bad boy of the NRL had to withdraw at the 11th-hour with a troublesome calf injury.

I also noticed an improved service from the BBC, both before and after the weekend fixtures via TV and radio, and that, too, can only be beneficial to the game.

But at the same time, when I picked up my usual national newspaper on Saturday morning hoping to see at least a few pars on the Saints-Catalans match, all I was confronted with, apart from the normal in-depth Barclay Premier League preview, was five pages devoted to the Wales-England rugby union match at the Millennium Stadium.

It didn't take me long to reach the crossword section!

Still on the subject of Sky's presentation of the sport, like many local fans I enjoyed a trip down memory lane on Thursday night by tuning in to Sky Gold which featured Saints back-to-back Super League title wins at Old Trafford against Bradford Bulls (1999) and Wigan Warriors (2000).

It also served as a reminder of what a great team Saints had at the time with the likes of present boss Keiron Cunningham, Paul Sculthorpe, Sean Long, Chris Joynt Tommy Martyn, Kevin Iro and Anthony Sullivan in their ranks and I wondered how they compared to last year's champions.

The mists of time may be clouding my judgement but I think today's Langtree Park stars have still a long way to go before they can remotely be compared with their predecessors.

Or am I wrong?

Lovers of the 13-a-side code can't afford to miss an exhibition which opened on Monday at the Central Library, St Helens, and will run until February 26.

'The Rugby League Heritage on Tour' tells the story of the game, players and supporters and most of importantly, the communities that helped make the sport the success it is. As well as historic memorabilia, including a player's shirt from the first ever rugby league Test and the ball from the famous 1954 Challenge Cup Final replay, the exhibition tells the story of the game's split from rugby union, the first World Cup, the banning of league in World War 11 France and much, much more.

The story of black players is told, including 1950s coach Roy Francis and Hull FC and Hull Kingston Rovers great Clive Sullivan, while women's involvement in the game features Hull's own Kay Ibbetson and Julie Lee. Amateur rugby league is also highlighted.

Saints boss: 'It wasn't a pretty start to season'

SAINTS	18
CATALANS DRAGONS	7

Saints began the defence of their Super League crown only a few hours after broadcasters Sky had screened The Longest Day - a war-time film epic depicting the Normandy landings.

Now they could be forgiven for re-titling Friday's Anglo-French TV sporting blockbuster, The Longest Night, and with good reason. It started at 8.02pm and following a catalogue of time-consuming incidents, including a 12th second head injury to Dragons' Aussie debutant Willie Tonga which halted proceedings for 10 minutes, two sin-binnings, and a plethora of penalties awarded by referee Phil Bentham finished more than two hours later.

Whether it was Super League's longest-ever drawn out battle (and that's is probably the right word to describe a bone-crunching and often bruising encounter) I don't know but it never really got off the ground due to its stop-start nature and failed to live up to all the pre-match hype.

"It wasn't pretty," admitted Saints' boss Keiron Cunningham. "The fans have been waiting all winter for the new season to start and to watch the sport they love.

"Then after only two TV matches (Widnes v Wigan being the other) people are just talking about is how many refereeing decisions are made in the game while all we want do is play Rugby League."

Both sides showed occasional flashes of brilliance but not enough to suggest they are already firing on all cylinders and there is definitely room for improvement.

Cunningham will obviously be pleased with result, if not his team's overall performance, and will be demanding a higher level of discipline in the future.

Bizarrely, Saints conceded a staggering seven penalties in a short spell as the interval approached and, in addition to having substitute Greg Richards sin-binned, suddenly found their 6-0 lead turned into an unwanted 7-6 deficit at the midway.

Fortunately, they had the necessary character and resilience to redress the balance - even though it served as a early warning that searching examination similar to the one provided by a French side shorn of their injured Australia superstar Todd Carney will be the norm in the months ahead.

However, it was another Aussie new boy, Atelea Vea, who crowned his debut by giving Saints an eighth minute lead when he cashed-in on fine approach work from James Roby, skipper Jon Wilkin and fellow debutant Travis Burns.

Tommy Makinson landed his first and only goal of the night to extend the hosts advantage to six points before another dazzling handling movement looked set to bear more fruit, only for Thomas Bosc to somehow dislodge the ball from Mark Percival's grasp inches from the line.

It was a rub of the green which the French side capitalised on - Eloi Pelissier burrowing his way over from dummy half after 37 minutes.

Joe Greenwood runs past the Catalan Dragons

Bosc levelled the scores with the resultant kick and then seconds before the break slotted over a drop goal to edge the French side in front for the first time.

Despite starting the final 40 minutes with Richards still in the sin-bin, Saints rallied on the back of successive penalties and from one, when Makinson was shoulder charged into touch by Morgan Escare, regained the lead in the 44th minute.

Jordan Turner did the damage as he smashed his way over to put the finishing touches to an exquisite handling move involving Roby, Wilkin, Burns and Jonny Lomax and when Catalans' winger Michael Oldfield was subsequently sin-binned for a professional foul they turned the screw further, thanks to substitute Andre Savelio's 58th minute touch down.

It was his first try for the club on his fourth appearance and justified Cunningham's faith in the youngster who will be 20 next month and looks set to be a strong challenger for a regular first team slot this season.

Makinson then wrapped up victory five minutes from the end, taking maximum advantage of a blistering Roby break in which he had left several defenders trailing in his wake.

The match ended with a last-minute flare-up and also a moment of hilarity when the ball was tossed back from the crowd and inadvertently struck a Catalans' player on his head.

Yes, it was just one of those nights !

Ex-England ace still has plenty to offer Saints

Paul Wellens has backed Jon Wilkin to continue driving Saints in the right direction

Wellens in no mood to live in his own shadow

SAINTS

By Andy Moffatt
andy.moffatt@jpress.co.uk
@AndyMoffatt

Paul Wellens isn't one to dwell on history so his heroics last season didn't weigh on his mind as he prepared for Super League XX.

But while the 34-year-old Saints legend doesn't dine out on his past glories the rest of us can feast on what was, quite frankly, Boys' Own stuff.

Stripped on his beloved number one shirt and relegated to the status of a squad player, many feared it would be a inglorious end to a sparkling career, reduced to a supporting role where he had once enjoyed star billing.

Wellens, meanwhile, was having none of it.

With a mounting injury list, then head coach Nathan Brown relied increasingly on Wellens' guile and footballing nous to steer Saints campaign.

The statistics for 2014 tell their own story.

Wellens played 30 games and scored 12 tries, bagging six man of the match awards along the way. For good measure, he ended the season as the club's second highest try-scorer, with the second most try assists and the third highest number of clean breaks.

In the Grand Final, it was Wellens who made the crucial call and executed a perfect kick to set up Tommy Makinson's vital try in the Grand Final.

And it was Wellens who perfectly articulated the joy of finally hurling the Grand Final monkey off Saints' back with his jubilant, chest-beating celebrations in front of the Saints faithful at the final hooter.

Despite all that he knows Old Father Time is catching up on him.

He returned from the off-season having penned a new 12-month deal to find himself relieved of the captain's armband and knows he can't expect a place in the starting XIII every week.

And he admits part of him realised losing the captaincy was a possibility.

Wellens told The St Helens Reporter: "At the start of last season it was becoming more and more difficult to force my way into the team.

"I was coming off the bench a lot but due to the number of injuries we had last season got to start a lot more and I did really well.

"But that (losing the captaincy) doesn't change what I have to offer as a senior player, so I will just keep doing what I have always done."

Wellens has nothing but praise for his successor, Jon Wilkin.

The pair are firm friends off the field and spoke at length before Wilkin accepted the captaincy, with Wellens' full backing.

"Me and Wilko, we're not just teammates, we're friends," added Wellens.

"We socialise away from the rugby. I was the best man at his wedding last year so that relationship, it's more than just teammates so in that sense it was an easy conversation.

"We were honest with each other and I wouldn't have it any other way. He's been at the club at long time, he's a highly respected member of the group and I'm sure he'll do a great job.

"Over the last few years, the squad has been in transition with more young players coming into the group and us losing a lot of experience. So myself, Jon, and James Roby have come together as a leadership group and tried our best to drive things in the right direction and I'm sure that will continue under Jon's captaincy."

It seems almost certain Wellens will hang up his boots at the end of the season and take up a coaching role with his beloved Saints.

And for Wellens, who is famed for his almost supernatural ability to read the game, it is easy to put himself in his boss' shoes and he's relishing playing under his old muckers Cunningham and Sean Long.

"I lot of times when a new coach comes in there's a period of getting to know each other but with Keiron and Sean, that's not the case and I think that will help a lot this year."

What odds history repeating itself? With Wellens, only a fool would bet against him.

'Salford game is my top priority'

TURN FROM BACK PAGE

be in line to return to the side against Salford.

Cunningham revealed that McCarthy-Scarsbrook had "half a chance" of being given the all-clear and that Thompson, who picked up a side strain in the pre-season win over Wigan, was "looking likely" for the Salford game.

But, despite tomorrow's game being the last opportunity for the Saints players to book their place in the World Club Challenge line-up, he insisted his side's sole focus was on Salford.

"I won't even think about the World Club Challenge until we've reviewed the Salford game," he said.

"I couldn't tell you what my side will be - I'm not 100 per cent sure what my side will be this week, never mind next week!

"Salford looked pretty good in their first game. They look a lot bigger this year and have got a bit more punch.

"You'd think they'd be doing something this year with the amount of money they've spent and the players they've got on board. They've signed some great players."

Cunningham, who said he was grateful for the 10-day turnaround between the next two games, expects Saints to improve on their opening performance of the season tomorrow night too.

"The Catalans game was a bit stop-start but I thought we produced a gritty defensive performance," he said.

"In the first game of the season everyone's a bit nervous, a bit unsure about the opposition. You would expect sides to be better this week and fully up and running after about a month.

"It will be different when the sun comes out and the ground dries up."

Head Coach Cunningham: 'He's gone down with a virus which is unfortunate, but we're not in a bad spot'

By Chris Amery

@ChrisAmery2

Luke Walsh is in danger of losing his race to be fit in time for the World Club Challenge.

Head coach Keiron Cunningham said there was "no chance" of the diminutive Aussie playmaker being involved against Salford tomorrow night.

And he admitted that throwing Walsh straight into a game as big as the one-off final against South Sydney on February 22 would be a huge gamble.

He said: "I'm not sure what Luke's chances are of making the game next week - I would have liked to give him a run this week.

"He's gone down with a virus, of all things, and there's no chance he can do anything with the rest of the team. It's unfortunate, but we're not in a bad spot.

"If he's not fit this week then he probably won't be playing next week.

"His leg is 100 per cent fine - every specialist in the land will tell you it is healed. It was his ankle which required surgery late on and set him back.

"We knew he needed ankle surgery but the surgeon who worked on his knee wouldn't allow it until he was sure his leg had healed."

On the plus-side, both Luke Thompson and Louie McCarthy-Scarsbrook could

'NRL are trying to poach our players'

Keiron Cunningham fears young stars like Tommy Makinson and Mark Percival could be convinced to join the Super League exodus to the NRL, writes Chris Amery.

The Saints boss believes Aussie clubs will try to cherry-pick the Super League champions' young stars.

And he reckons young aces Makinson and Percival, as well as Luke Thompson and Greg Richards, could figure on the radar of top sides Down Under.

Cunningham, himself an NRL target during his playing days, said: "I think NRL coaches do rate Super League these days - the tide's definitely turning. They're always trying to poach our players so they must have some sort of respect for us.

"At the moment Super League is doing a great job and the game's growing but we've got to try to find a way to safeguard it. Our biggest threat isn't Leeds, Wigan and Warrington anymore, it's the NRL and everybody seems to know it.

"How do you save your best players? We develop some really good players in this country, we put a lot of time, effort and finance into juniors to turn them into world class players.

"For somebody then to just cherry-pick them would break your heart."

Cunningham was also scathing in his assessment of "certain former Saints coaches", criticising their recruitment policy.

"Certain coaches have let the club down in the past in terms of recruitment and the way the juniors were run," he said.

"Recruitment is the biggest thing. You've got to understand the game, what you need and why you need it and - long-term - what it's going to do to the club.

"Some coaches we've had here in the past have signed people we didn't need to sign and it just ends up hurting you."
